J. M. HUDSON.

The gentleman whose name is at the head of this article is a candidate for the office of Tax Assessor of Benton County and will strive to that end by way of the Democratic primary December 6.

Mr. Hudson is a practical farmer and business man, and as a citizen is above reproach. If elected he would bring the experience of four years to the office, which he held several years ago with credit to himself and satisfaction to the public. He has been urged to enter the race for Tax Assessor and is assured by many friends of their hearty support.

It is Mr. Hudson's intention to try and see the people and present his claims. In asking the people of Benton County for the office of Tax Assessor, his only pledge is to perform his duty to the letter of the law. Any courtesies extended to him will be highly appreciated, and should he be the voters' choice he will never give them cause to regret the confidence reposed in him.

For Sale—A large size Kimball Organ; beautiful golden oak case; good as new; a bargain; cash or easy payments. See W. P. Redick at Bowles' store.

In Benton County 726 bales of cotton were ginned up to October 18 1919, as compared with 1059 bales ginned to October 18 1918.

CHRIST REJECTORS.

BY A. M. MELTON.

Then there is another class who come under the condemnation of our text.

They are, "Unbelievers in his word and message." Now, there is not a great difference in disbelievers and unbelievers. The former disbelievers, reject his official character. The latter, unbelievers, do not receive his message. Many of the Jews, as we have already said, as to their attitude toward Christ, were skeptics. The mass of them, however merely did not believe. So now, the crowds, the greater portion of humanity are in unbelief.

They do not harken to the gospel so as to understand it. They do not consider it so as to decide upon its acceptance. This is often the results of a sinful apathy in reference to all truly religious concerns. This is, and perhaps always has been, the preeminent sin of all ages; "indifference to the concerns of the souls' eternal welfare." We do not need to do anything else to go to hell; "just sit quite in the stream of iniquity where we are by nature, and sooner or later, over the great precipice of eternal damnation goes our soul." O, the ruin of inconsideration! All unbelief is despising of Christ; for think of the glorious messenger and the gracious message! and then to put it away by unbelief.—How great the affront to God! How glaring the contempt it exhibits how heinous the sin which is thus involved!

The third class and perhaps the one in which we find most of the Christ despisers, "Are those who are so engrossed with other things as to neglect Christ."

Now this is a class of unbelievers of a peculiar kind. They may, in their minds and judgements, be rather favorable to Christ, feel interested in his work, often disposed to become his disciples; but they are so occupied, so fully engaged with other things and pursuits that they excuse themselves for the present. The farm, the merchandise, domestic duties and other things fill their hearts and absorb their whole time. Listen friend; "It is not only easy to lose the soul by following forbidden objects, but also by giving up the mind and heart to things lawfully in themselves, but which should only engage our secondary attention. Hence, a man may make science or philosophy or literature the main end of his life to the neglect of his moral welfare and of Christ the only Savior from the wrath to come. Nay, a man may yield himself up to human pursuits and generous lines of action, and yet live in neglect of spiritual religion and thus, in reality, be a despiser of Christ.

There are no neutral grounds. We are an obedient disciple or a rejector one of the two. "He that gathereth not with me, scattereth abroad," is the language of Jesus Christ himself. Wisdom says, Christ's kingdom and his righteousness should be first be first as well as preeminent in our esteem and attention.

Still no announcement received for Circuit Court Clerk. Luney Hollingsworth was appointed to the vacancy created by the resignation of L. R. Watson until his successor is elected in August, 1920. Its a good chance to show your colors, fellows; and at the same time be regular with the party.

Save your nickles and quarters for the entertainment at the college tonight.
